

A fresh urban mix of Scandi-Industrial

A blend of two iconic decor themes, namely Scandinavian and Industrial-style, this 5-room DBSS HDB flat in Pasir Ris is the love nest of a young married couple. The design team at De Style Interior was able to strike the perfect balance between the two styles without overpowering the interior. The result? A unique home with a refreshing look that strikes a balance between Scandi-chic and raw industrialism.

▲ FINDING HARMONY

While the Industrial style is more evident in the decor of the home, the design team showcased Scandinavian influences by keeping the home clean and uncluttered. Streamlined furniture that is simple and practical takes precedence here. Without unnecessary clutter, the living room is spacious enough to fulfil the owner's dream of having a punching bag in his home. The 200-kg punching bag hangs from a specially customised ceiling mount in the corner of the living room.

▲ EATING OUT

Evoking scenes of romantic al fresco meals, the dining room features industrial-style furniture set against a wall of bricks. The look is further enhanced with the addition of a bar top that separates the dining room from the living area. Here, the homeowner can use this island counter as a breakfast nook, an impromptu study desk or even an additional tabletop when entertaining guests. Also of note is the brick wall on the far left; it pivots to reveal the entrance to the bedrooms.

“The husband loves the industrial style, while the wife prefers the Scandinavian look, so I had to find a way to marry the two themes.”

RAW MATERIALS

The entrance of the home features a storage cabinet and shoe cabinet clad with laminates that resemble cement screed finish. On the other side is a brick wall that has become ubiquitous in industrial-style homes because of its raw appeal. The uneven shades of brown on the bricks are reminiscent of the weathered bricks found in alleys of European cities. However, instead of wallpaper or actual bricks, the designers suggested using CraftStone for the wall for its easy maintenance and smooth finish.

DIM BUT NOT DULL

Using wallpaper and warm lighting, the design team gave the master bedroom a dim, den-like ambience that's ideal for rest and relaxation. To add to this cosy vibe, they decided to retain the existing wooden floors and matched it with a taupe and bronze colour scheme. To further maintain the room's minimalist slant, the designers customised wall-hung bedside tables and a space-saving feature.

THE FASHION ROOM

Although the bedroom has a dedicated space for a wardrobe, the homeowners chose to do away with it and converted one of the bedrooms into a walk-in wardrobe. Inspiration came from the interiors of fashion boutiques, leading to this room's mix of open shelving, racks and drawer system. And of course, no walk-in wardrobe is complete without full-length mirrors.
